

FF&E
Dining Table
Sketched Detail

The support and base of the table will be metal while the fixed tabletop surface elements will be timber.

The lightweight veneered timber elements sit on a metal frame. The powder coated metal base has been designed so that it can be used as a surface to neatly and discreetly store a bag or similarly sized item. The tables must be somewhat flexible to accommodate groups of two, four, or more; therefore, a square tabletop is the logical choice.
